/Joseph E. Avellino/          Primary Examiner, Art Unit 2143

Continuation of 11. does NOT place the application in condition for allowance because: regarding claim 1, the PEP of the Applicant's invention is provided with a server functionality providing server services to a PDP, just the opposite of the services in the Policy Enabling Point disclosed in the Kohli reference.

In response to the argument, the examiner interpreted as follows:

A server is defined as any device provides services to other device therefore the PEP is functioning as a server by providing events information to the policy server in order to decide following policy actions and the policy server as a client, when the events are considered as the services.

Also the applicant did not describe any specific distinctions of the PEP as a server and the PDP as a client in the claim other than stating as the server and the client. Kohli teaches all the limitations of claimed functionality of both PEP and PDP.

Claims are to be given their broadest reasonable interpretation during prosecution, and the scope of a claim cannot be narrowed by reading disclosed limitations into the claim. See In re Morris, 127 F.3d 1048, 1054, 44 USPQ2D 1023, 1027 (Fed. Cir. 1997); In re Zletz, 893 F.2d 319, 321, 13 USPQ2D 1320, 1322 (Fed. Cir. 1989); In re Prater, 415 F.2d 1393, 1404, 162 USPQ 541,550 (CCPA 1969). In addition, the law of anticipation does not require that a reference "teach" what an appellant's disclosure teaches. Assuming that reference is properly "prior art," it is only necessary that the claims "read on" something disclosed in the reference, i.e., all limitations of the claim are found in the reference, or "fully met" by it. Kalman v. Kimberly-Clark Corp., 713 F.2d 760, 772, 218 USPQ 781,789 (Fed. Cir. 1983).
